

As a member of the James Cancer Network, affiliate institutions have access to patient education materials developed by The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center and The James Cancer Hospital and Solove Research Institute.

The James Patient Education Department provides easy-to-understand health information to help patients and caregivers learn more about cancer and its treatment. These resources were created with James clinical experts and health educators to help patients make informed decisions about their cancer care.

To get this helpful information:

- Visit The James Patient Education website to access printed handouts and videos. These materials can be shared with patients to help them learn more about their cancer diagnosis, treatment and care: cancer.osu.edu/patienteducation. Click on the link to the “Patient Education Website”.
- This website includes over 1,000 cancer-related education handouts with topics such as: how to manage treatment side effects, fertility concerns, exercise, depression, cancer survivorship, advance directives, non-drug pain relief, chemotherapy, immunotherapy and many more...
